*Fees are presented as a range because New Beginnings cannot predict the complexities for all cases. An adoption from an established process like Jamaica, or possibly Pakistan, would have lower fees. An adoption that has been partially completed prior to the passage of the UAA could be less complicated as well. Until the child's legal documents are approved by USCIS, we can not be assured of how much labor will be involved; however, we can do a case review to better forecast the fees. If the case is extremely complicated, we reserve the right to charge additional fees.
